ToT LENA

LENA: "LEbendig & NAchhaltig" - Vivid & Sustainable

An internationally standardized learning programme.

LENA stresses individual learning processes and autonomous problem-solving by using practical examples. Train the Trainer programs are a great investment. Not only are they cost-effective, but they help the team/company to develop a real training culture within the business, making sure future managers and leaders have the skills and the knowledge to succeed – and how to pass them on.

LENA centers the learner and his/ her learning processes. Learning is a very personal matter, which has to be performed actively by each individual. Our trainers accompany the course participants with innovative learning methods and thereby assist them in acquiring knowledge and competencies self-reliantly.

Today, precisely this self-learning competence is a key qualification in the economy. Moreover, the self-learning competence is a basic prerequisite for the “entrepreneurial thinking” and the life-long-learning – two factors, which are key in all professions in a modern knowledge-based society.

Ask yourself how capable is your organization at surfacing problems and opportunities and resolving them efficiently and quickly at all levels?

How fast and sustainably can you transform your business without having to trade-off quality?

Did you know that the cost of poor quality (internal and external failure) can be much higher than the cost of good quality (prevention cost such as quality trainings, or appraisal cost such as proper inspections)?
